

Chelsea McCrae: creative and hard-working

I am Chelsea McCrae I am currently in my fourth year of college at Muskingum University and I am studying Digital Media Design. I enjoy spending time with my family and friends. I also love watching Disney movies, and visiting Disney World with my family. I went with my friends for the first time last year. I first became interested in layout or graphic design in high school when I was involved with the yearbook. I also learned how to do various printmaking styles in high school.

Once I got to college it took me a while to decide what I wanted to major in, but what help me make a final decision was my first college level graphic design class. That class introduced me to Photoshop, which is program I had not really used very much up to that point. I was also reintroduced to InDesign, which I had used in high school but I had only learned the basic functions. Throughout my high school and college career I have had an interest in photography as well.
