

Muskingum University is home to more 90 campus groups those include a wide variety of interests. Groups that a student could find on campus include Honorary, music, special interest groups, politics, and service organizations.

If a club is already on campus and already gone through this process but wants to attract more members to their club. They can do things such as new or different events, reimagine their club by updating their constitution, electing new officers.

A club that is offering some new events to attract new member is the creative writing club. The club's new president Jacquelyn Burge is hoping these events bring's more students out to their events.

<audio id"44"filename="26221"duration="0:13">

These events are hopefully going to bring more people out to join in what Jacquelyn considers a family of writers.

The creative writing club is small in numbers but Jackie considers this club like her family here on campus.

<audio id"45"filename="26222"duration=14.8">

She Thinks it is cool to have a family on campus of people who love to write.

Jackie hopes the club grows in size with these events and with the way the club is structure she hopes that brings more people in. For Orbit Media News, I'm Chelsea McCrae.